Serving people facing hunger is at the heart of what we do.

"We have to decide between gas and food. It's really been a really, really tough go. And I don't like it."

Inflation has deeply impacted people like Brenda in rural communities. Visiting the Mobile Market free food distribution in Pomeroy, Brenda looked forward to receiving a variety of foods that would help her cook dinners and make it through the month.

She expressed gratitude for the Mobile Market, saying that it helps the whole community.

"I would have never thought about using our food bank or this Mobile Market until we got so desperate that I had to."
